PG Exhibits sales force expands into Phoenix

AURORA, Colo. – March 27, 2007 –PG Exhibits is known for success in major trade shows across the country. The award-winning exhibit design firm spans the globe with its cutting-edge, experiential design philosophy. And, with its latest hire, PG Exhibits is expanding its regional sales reach into Phoenix.

As a senior account executive, Alex Maturani brings with him a breadth and depth of experience. Maturani's engineering and manufacturing background spans a myriad of industries including electronics, automotive, real estate and commercial development.

"My experience and time spent on show floors across the U.S. enable me to better communicate with clients and provide solutions on all levels," Maturani says. "Our goal at PG Exhibits is to exceed our clients' expectations."

With offices in Aurora, Las Vegas and Phoenix, PG Exhibits positions itself for more growth and successful alliances. "Alex's expertise will be instrumental in our strategic growth plans for 2008 and beyond," says Jim McGrath, president of PG Exhibits. "He is a perfect fit for our team, which is known for unsurpassed customer satisfaction."

PG Exhibits is an award-winning leader in exhibit design and logistics management, creating dynamic three-dimensional, integrated, exhibit marketing solutions for tradeshow and high-image environments. PG Exhibits has won 13 industry awards in the past three years and forges ahead with cutting edge designs that become showstoppers for its clients.

All PG Exhibits' design and fabrication will continue to be housed at the company's recently-expanded facility in Aurora, Colo.
