PG Exhibits wins three Colorado-BMA Gold Key Awards

Denver, Colorado - June 21, 2004 - PG Exhibits was a big winner at the 2004 BMA-Colorado Gold Key Awards on June 18th. The Denver-based exhibit company captured two Gold awards and one Silver at the event, which is recognized as Colorado's most prestigious competition dedicated to business-to-business marketing communications.

In the Trade Show Exhibit 20' or more category, PG Exhibits took two top spots, winning Gold for its Gates NAPA exhibit and Silver for its StorageTek exhibit. In the Rolling Exhibits category, PG Exhibits took Gold for its EchoStar Mobile Trailer.

The 40' by 40' Gates NAPA exhibit incorporated theatrical lighting, flat panel monitors, a walk-through environment, and fast set-up and dismantle capabilities, and can be reconfigured to fit a wide range of exhibit needs.

The 20' by 20' StorageTek exhibit featured meeting space for up to six, flat panel monitors for multimedia presentations, and quick install/dismantle capabilities. The design can be reconfigured to fit a variety of spaces.

EchoStar's mobile 53'-long doublewide trailer displays DISH Network products on 15 TV monitors with a live satellite feed. Built to withstand heavy road travel, it effectively handles foot traffic on two paths through the trailer, accommodating more than 200,000 visitors in a 12-month period.

Also of note, Lockheed Martin captured Gold in the Permanent Exhibit category with an exhibit designed and built by PG Exhibits. "Atlas – Evolving Customer Communication to a New Dimension," is a permanent multi-dimensional display installed at the United States Air Force Program Office in El Segundo, California, and at the Atlas Program Headquarters lobby in Denver, Colorado.
